JOHN SHULTZ IS SERIOUSLY HURT

Thrown from Horse in Square he Sustains Fracture of the Base of the Skull. Horse Becomes Unruly when Bridle Gives.

John Shultz, of Carlisle street, was thrown by his spirited horse in the Square this morning, falling head foremost to the ground and sustaining a fracture at the base of the skull. Other minor injuries were sustained about the face and head but that at the base of the skull is the most serious. Mr. Shultz is proprietor of the Shultz cafe on Carlisle street.

The horse which was responsible for the accident was the handsome black animal formerly owned by Senator Martin. It figured in the accident last summer in which Mr. Martin was so painfully hurt.

Mr. Shultz was riding horseback on York street when the trouble, a light flimsy sort of an affair gave way and the horse at once started to buck. Lunging and leaping it started through the Square, the animal being entirely off the ground most of the time. Mr. Shultz, who is recognized as a good horseman, stuck to him as long as possible but was finally thrown to the hard surface of the road, striking on his head.

As he fell, he held to the line but fortunately was so stunned that he let go or he would undoubtedly have been dragged. He lay for several moments unconscious while the few persons who witnessed the event hurried to him. He was bleeding profusely from the nose and other parts of the head and was partially unconscious. An effort was made to get him to his feet but he was unable to stand and it was thought that both legs were broken.

Several men carried him to his home and a physician was summoned. He found the injuries noted above. No other bones were found to be broken and it is not thought that any internal injuries were sustained.

The horse was caught a few minutes after the accident at the Hotel Gettysburg corner. An examination of the bridle showed that part of it had simply pulled out and nothing was torn or broken.

DOUBLE WEDDING

Ralph W. Krentler, son of Edward Krentler, of Penn township, York county, and Miss Cora Gremmel, daughter of Jacob Gremmel, of Hampstead, Md., were married at Trinity Reformed parsonage, Hanover, by Rev. M. J. Roth, at 9 p. m., Saturday, April 6th. The young couple started housekeeping in a newly furnished home in Hanover.

At the same time and place, John Lucabaugh, son of Jacob Lucabaugh, and Florence Kemper, daughter of Amos Kemper, of Adams county, were married. They will reside with the groom's parents, on the Jacob Sell farm.

POLLY-KRISE

Miss Fannie A. C. Krise, of Gettysburg, and Richard Polly, of Fairfield, were married on Wednesday, April 3, at the Lutheran parsonage in Fairfield by the Rev. W. K. Fleck.

The bride is widely known in town and the county through a number of years' efficient service in the store of G. W. Weaver and Son and the groom is a popular blacksmith in the west end town. Earl Musselman was the ring bearer at the wedding ceremony but there were no other attendants. Mr. and Mrs. Polly went to Niagara Falls on their wedding trip and returned home today to Fairfield where they will reside.

TO START NEW MONUMENT SOON

Expect to Have New Virginia Memorial on Gettysburg Field Ready for Dedication Next Year. Statue of General Lee.

The state of Virginia expects to have the handsome memorial to her sons who fought in the battle of Gettysburg ready for dedication in July 1913 and final details regarding the monument are now being determined prior to the commencement of work upon its erection.

A large equestrian statue of General Robert E. Lee will surmount a massive base and pedestal in front of which is to be a handsome group of figures. A site on West Confederate avenue overlooking the scene of Pickett's Charge and near the Spangler Woods was adopted some time ago and granted by the authorities having in charge matters pertaining to the local park.

There has been some question about the inscription on the monument but this was determined at Richmond on Monday by Governor Mann, Colonel W. Gordon McCabe and Colonel Thomas Smith, members of the Virginia Gettysburg Battlefield Monument Commission. The inscription will be "Virginia: To her Sons at Gettysburg."

Whether or not the monument will be dedicated at the time of the fiftieth anniversary has not been officially announced but it is hoped that some other date will be chosen as so many other events at that time would detract considerably from this ceremony. The monument is to cost about $50,000.

BRYSONIA

JONATHAN A. TWINING

Jonathan A. Twining, of Philadelphia, well known throughout Adams County, died suddenly on Sunday aged about sixty years.

Mr. Twining for many years came to this place and, with Frank Bieschke, has been buying and shipping coals to Philadelphia. He was a man of much intelligence and regarded highly for his recognized honesty in business transactions.

The funeral was held today near Doylestown, Bucks county.

LUTHER HILTBRIK

Luther Hiltbrich, a retired farmer, died at his home in Littlestown Monday morning at half past nine from an attack of acute indigestion with which he was taken ill on Sunday. He was aged 48 years.

He leaves his wife and two young daughters, also the following brothers and sisters: Samuel and George Hiltbrich, Mrs. Joshua Biehl and Mrs. William Reigle, all of Littlestown; and John Hiltbrich, of Kamp's Station.

Funeral from his late home on Wednesday afternoon at one o'clock.

ELECTRIC LIGHT FOR HIGHFIELD

It seems probable that Highfield and immediate vicinity will soon be lighted with electricity, as negotiations are under way to accomplish that end.

It is reported that Dr. Joseph Roach, a well known dentist, formerly of Baltimore, who owns a handsome cottage in the hill east of Highfield, and who is also largely interested in the company that furnishes water to the residents in the vicinity of Blue Ridge Summit, is the prime factor in the movement.

Some of the business places at Blue Ridge Summit are using current furnished by the power company at the Maryland State sanatorium, and Dr. Roach is of the opinion that with the modern equipment he expects to install he will be able to extend his business to that point. He will be in a position to furnish light to all wishing it in that vicinity, along the state road to Highfield and even to Cascade, Md.

ALLEGED FORGER

C. A. Heffner, Carlisle, formerly of Mont Alto, was arrested in Carlisle, Saturday, charged with forging the name of his father in law, J. A. Miley, Mont Alto, to a note for $100. He was placed in jail in default of bail. The alleged forged note was held by Ed. Cronican, Carlisle. When the latter made an effort to collect the note he learned that it was a forgery and at once brought suit against Heffner. Detective Bentley, of Cumberland county, arrested Heffner. He says that the latter protested his innocence, begged for leniency, and then burst into tears. Heffner has a wife and one child. On the note held by Cronican, Mrs. Miley's name appears as a witness.

SCHOOL REPORT

The following is the report of Woodside school, Straban township, Ella M. Yeagy, teacher. Number enrolled during the month 22; per cent. of attendance, girls 91; boys 84. Those who attended every day during the month were, Irene, Laura and Susanna Fleming, Sarah Hartlaub and Charles Evans. Ethel Hartlaub, Lottie Evans, and Walter Topper each missed one day. Charles Evans was present every day during the term and Laura Fleming missed one day.

NOT PROFITABLE

Only eleven Gettysburg people took advantage of the low rate to Hanover on Monday on account of the minstrel show. A special train was run back to Gettysburg by Manager Hollebaugh of the New Colonial Theatre, Hanover, at a considerable loss. The attraction, George Evans' Honey Boy Minstrels, was first class.

BOY BURNED BY GASOLINE

East Berlin Man Has Unusual Experience with Automobile which Results in Painful Injury to Young Man.

By the explosion of a gasoline tank on an automobile, belonging to a Mr. Sell, of East Berlin, Luther Sweitzer, the 11 year old son of Edward Sweitzer, residing on the W. A. Smyser farm in West Manchester township, York County, was badly burned about the face and head Sunday.

Mr. Sell was running between East Berlin and York in an automobile, when his machine got out of order and came to a stop in front of the Sweitzer home. Luther Sweitzer was attracted to the scene as a spectator.

He stood a few feet away while the owner of the machine made the necessary adjustments to get it in working order. When the driver was ready to start he gave the crank a few turns and simultaneously with that the gasoline tank exploded. A sheet of flame enveloped young Sweitzer. His eyes were closed by turns his hair was scorched and his face blistered.

Dr. Zich, of York New Salem, was summoned and dressed the burns. No one else was injured and the machine escaped serious injury. The cause of the explosion is unknown.

ORRTANNA

Ortanna, April 9—Mrs. O. J. Fritz, of Hanover, is spending some time with her brother and family, near town.

MANGLED BENEATH CAR

Patrick Gibbin, Philadelphia, was, it is believed, fatally injured Monday afternoon when struck and run over by a runaway car loaded with stone at the Thomasville Stone and Lime company quarry, and is now a patient at the York hospital. It is not thought that he has a chance to live out the day as his skull is fractured, his left arm and left leg are broken, the latter above the knee, and there are numerous bruises and contusions all over the body.

The injured man has been working at the quarry but a week. In company with laborers he was at the foot of an incline, his duty being to load small stone into the empty cars. He had loaded one of the small cars with stone and started it up the incline, when up about 300 feet, the cable tore, and the car came running rapidly to the bottom. In the excitement Gibbin stepped on the track and was knocked down and run over. He was taken to the office of Dr. Stambaugh, Thomasville, who gave the wounds first treatment, and then had the man taken to the York hospital.

TENER PLEADS FOR TREES

Governor Tener has issued his proclamation for the spring Arbor days, which had been previously announced for April 12 and 26. The proclamation is as follows:

The forests were one of the greatest gifts to man. They surrounded him with beauty; they cradle his streams; they furnished him with shelter and food; they give him a material which was easily fashioned to his simple needs. Every work of man owes much to the forests. The products of the forest are becoming scarce, so that today the best efforts of the brain and brawn of man are being exerted to produce suitable substitutes, but with only partial success. It remains, then, for man to reforest the land; his must be the unselfish task of conserving the beauty and wealth which were so liberally bestowed upon him. It is also fitting that the young be taught this duty to future generations.

Therefore, I, John K. Tener, Governor of the Commonwealth of Pennsylvania, do hereby issue this my proclamation, designating Friday, April 12, and Friday, April 26, 1912, Arbor days through the Commonwealth, and respectfully urge that the State observe one or the other of these days by the planting of trees and by holding such exercises in connection therewith as may be suitable.

GRAHAME-WHITE IN PERIL

Biplane in Which He Was Riding Turns Turtle in Air.

London, England, April 9.—Claude Grahame-White escaped death when a biplane he was flying with two mechanics as passengers was caught by a sudden gust of wind here and turned turtle.

The machine turned a complete somersault and then crashed to the ground. All three men were badly bruised, but none was seriously hurt.

REHEARING REFUSED IN BIG PATENT CASE

Supreme Court Declines to Reopen Issue.

Washington, April 9.—Rehearing of the so-called "patent monopoly" mimograph case was refused by the supreme court of the United States.

On March 11 the court decided that in selling a patented machine the patentee might require the purchaser to use only such supplies for the machine as are purchased from the owner of the patent, notwithstanding that the supplies are not patentable.

The decision was supported by only four members of the court, Justices Lurton, McKenna, Holmes and Van Devanter. Chief Justice White and Justices Hughes and Lamar dissented, asserting that the court had extended the patent law to cover everything in the universe, to the detriment of every household in the land.

Justice Day was absent during the argument of the case and took no part in the decision. Justice Pitney was not then a member of the court.

The government joined in the application for a rehearing and asked to be made a party to the case. Both motions were denied.

For the use of the patented "De Banke gas check" on its cannon in the army and navy, the United States government was held liable by the supreme court of the United States to pay $136,000 to the owner of the French invention.

It is said that such a device is indispensable in breech-loading guns, to seal the breech at the instant of explosion, so as to prevent "flare-backs."

Parachute Jumper Performs Another Sensational Feat.

New York, April 9.—Frank Law, the parachute jumper, who recently made a successful leap from the Statue of Liberty, performed another sensational feat in jumping from the top of the thirty-nine-story bank building at Wall and Nassau streets.

Law landed safely on the roof of the sub-treasury building, a two-story structure adjoining. Law last week tried to jump from the Flatiron building but was prevented.

Minor Flood Dead in Colliery.

Mount Carmel, Pa., April 9.—The body of John Sisco, of this place, was found near the Righter colliery here, covered with bruises and with the clothes wet and muddy. Sisco was a coal miner and had not worked since last Monday. It is believed that he was murdered.

Armour Company Fined.

Fargo, N. D., April 9.—The Armour Packing company was fined $100 here for selling large pails under violation of the state pure food law, which requires actual weight to be printed on the containers. An appeal will be taken, and if the fine is sustained the Armour company will withdraw from the land trade in North Dakota its officials declared.

Roll Eggs at White House.

Washington, April 9.—Thousands of children crowded the main grounds of the White House, the president's back yard, to join in the annual Easter Monday egg rolling. Children of all sorts and conditions, with their mothers, big sisters and nurses, flocked in to play.

FLOOD CRISIS IS IMMINENT

Believe Dikes on Eastern Side Will Hold.

STIRRING STORIES TOLD

Thousands of Marooned Persons Are Rescued From the Flood Swept Territory.

Memphis, Tenn., April 9.—The crisis in the Mississippi Valley's tremendous flood is imminent.

The chief anxiety centers in the situation along the river's reaches south of Memphis. If the dikes of Arkansas, Mississippi and North Louisiana hold for another thirty-six hours then the fertile valleys of the delta and the Yazoo south of Memphis will be spared.

State and government officials say the dikes on the eastern bank will withstand the tremendous pressure that will be exerted on the flood's crest. Nevertheless they are apprehensive and fear of breaks along the western dikes is shown by reports of the abandonment of homes and villages in the lowlands from Helena to the southward.

Stirring stories of the rescue of the refugees in the flood-swept territory of upper Arkansas have reached Memphis. One thousand or more persons marooned in Wynoke, Ark., were brought to Memphis, rescued through the initiative of a Memphis citizens' committee which made the hazardous trip to Wynoke to investigate stories of suffering. The reports were amply verified.

In a church were found scores of sufferers who had taken refuge there when the flood descended. As the water rose the refugees built scaffolding with the pews and thus kept their heads above the surface. On the high ground and in the attics of the houses near Wynoke hundreds more victims were found. All were brought to Memphis.

Refugees from the Modoc flood district south of Memphis, who had been brought to Memphis and to Helena on Sunday, say there has been some life loss in that section. These reports are unverified and the mayor Helena sent an emphatic statement declaring that there had been no fatalities from the breaks south of his city.

Unofficial estimates of the damage vary widely. Many persons who know every bend in the great river from New Orleans to Cairo say the pecuniary loss will amount to ten millions. Other persons equally conversant with the situation modify this estimate. Probably the heaviest specific loss must be estimated in the destruction of homes, the loss of live stock and the damage to manufacturing plants in the upper flood district.

The number of fatalities has been small. Prompt warnings have preceded the river's rise and residents of the threatened districts have been more or less alert. Probably thirty fatalities would meet the conservative total.

There has, however, been tremendous suffering among the homeless. Of the 30,000 or more persons who have been driven forth by the raging tide, hundreds went hungry and without water for many hours before succor reached them. Hundreds have been imprisoned on houseboats, in the trees and anchored on rafts for long periods. Despite the ample warnings many of the Arkansas and Tennessee homesteaders remained by their property till the last minute and then scores of them were taken from their flood-imposed places of refuge half naked.

ARREST FATHER FOR MURDER

Accused of Throwing Crying Child Across Room, Breaking Its Back.

Birmingham, N. Y., April 9.—A charge of murder was lodged against Ray Warwick, of Union, a small town near here.

He is alleged to have killed his four-year-old daughter Louise. The county authorities say that Warwick became angered over the crying of the child and picked her up and flung her across the room, breaking her back. He was arrested while making the arrangements for the funeral.

Armour Company Fined.

Fargo, N. D., April 9.—The Armour Packing company was fined $100 here for selling large pails under violation of the state pure food law, which requires actual weight to be printed on the containers. An appeal will be taken, and if the fine is sustained the Armour company will withdraw from the land trade in North Dakota its officials declared.

Roll Eggs at White House.

Washington, April 9.—Thousands of children crowded the main grounds of the White House, the president's back yard, to join in the annual Easter Monday egg rolling. Children of all sorts and conditions, with their mothers, big sisters and nurses, flocked in to play.

Bribery Probers to Oust Legislators.

Santa Fe, N. M., April 9.—The house bribery investigation committee, by a vote of 8 to 7, decided to make a report adverse to the four house members accused of bribery and recommended that they be unseated. A minority report in favor of the defendants will be made.

BEAT AND ROB AGED MAN

Negro Holds Up 102-Year-Old Man on Long Walk.

Croftsville, Pa., April 9.—One hundred and two years old, friendly and deaf, Joseph Kaufman, who was walking from Lancaster to his home in Wilmington, Del., complained to Chief of Police Hawk, of Parkersburg, that he had been held up and robbed near Atglen of $10.10, all he had in the world—by a colored man.

William White was arrested and held by Justice Wilson without bail to answer to a charge of highway robbery.

Kaufman said that as he came to a lonely spot he heard a noise behind him, and on turning saw that he was followed by a colored man. The colored man knocked him senseless, he said, and when he revived he found that his money had been stolen from him.

The affair caused considerable feeling in Parkersburg because of the fact that two attacks by colored men upon white women have occurred in that vicinity within the last few months, and dire threats were not lacking in the mutterings of the crowd that had gathered before the Parkersburg police station while the hearing was in progress.

GETS YEAR FOR HAVING 10 HUSBANDS

Horse's Kick Causing Insanity is Plea of Defense.

Allentown, Pa., April 9.—The first jury trial at the opening of criminal court was that of Mrs. Jennie Schwoyer, the young woman accused of bigamy for having ten husbands.

She pleaded not guilty, declaring she had never been married at all. Marriage license bureau records were then produced to show that she had been married in Lehigh county at least three times and Revs. J. O. Leibensperger and Thomas Knecht said they had officiated at two of her ventures in matrimony.

It was said by some that a third husband, named Miller, is dead, but the police say he is not dead, and with seven other punitive husbands of the woman, who is twenty-eight years old, is in hiding.

As soon as former District Attorney Lichtenwalder saw the records convincing him that the woman had been married more than once he changed her plea to non vult. On being called for sentence, Mrs. Schwoyer again insisted she had never been married to any man, and her attorney said she had once been kicked by a horse and is unbalanced.

After some questioning the court ventured the opinion that the woman was more untruthful than demented, and sent her to jail for a year.

The district attorney was instructed to inquire into her sanity, upon the score that if she is really insane the place for her is in an asylum and not the prison.

When she got back to the pen her aphasia left her suddenly and she began to rail at her husbands, saying none of them had been of any account, and repeating her assertion that she would get a good one yet if she had to marry six more.

DISH WASHING GOOD EXCUSE

Judge Says He Is Not In Contempt of Court.

Allentown, Pa., April 9.—When Robert J. Keck, accused of malpractice and perjury, failed to appear for trial the sheriff was sent on his trail and found him at home washing dishes.

When brought into court he explained that he did not think his case would be called so soon, and since his wife had a broken ankle she made him do the housework.

"Your excuse is accepted," said Judge Tresler. "A man who washes the dishes under such circumstances is not in contempt of court."

Shoots Girl and Himself.

Logansport, Ind., April 9.—Otto G. Brown, nineteen years old, the son of a Macy, Ind., farmer, shot and probably fatally wounded his sweetheart, Leona Ehlinger, fifteen years old, and then killed himself, because the girl's mother refused her consent to their marriage. Brown left two notes, one of which he signed "Leona," indicating that he had carefully planned the double tragedy in case marriage was refused him.

Looking After Things

"But, James—" protested Mrs. Banket.

That was as far as she got. Her husband turned on her an implacable face. "Not one word!" he said. "I've got some sense if you haven't, and I guess I can see a case of nervous prostration coming on if you can't! You need rest, Elmina, and you're going to begin today. It's Sunday and there's nothing special to do, and—"

Mrs. Banket groaned. "Nothing to do!" she repeated, in faint sarcasm. "If that isn't just like a man! Why—" "Well, then, I'm here to do it, am I not?" demanded Banket. "You're to stay in bed and sleep if you want to, but at any rate you're not going to get up. It isn't beyond a mere man to run a dinky little house like this one for one day!"

"Well," said Mrs. Banket, "there's a lot to do and—"

"What's that?" Banket demanded, indignantly, as shrieks arose from another room.

"I think Thomas is pulling Angelina's hair," Mrs. Banket explained. "You'd better go and see!"

"I should think," he said, "that you'd have enough control over those young hyenas so that they'd mind better when they're spoken to! They have absolutely no sense of respect for—" "Something's burning in the kitchen," broke in Mrs. Banket. "You'll have to go and see—"

Banket went. It was the breakfast oatmeal and Tilly was in a highly disturbed state of mind. She was more so when Banket explained that the mistress of the house would not be visible that day.

"But what'll I do?" Tilly asked. She was not strong on meeting emergencies.

"Do!" repeated Banket. "What do you usually do when the oatmeal burns?"

"It never burned before," Tilly told him, anxiously. "When the meat burned once, Mrs. Banket she—"

"We'll go without breakfast food for once," Banket said, with dignity. He felt proud of the inspiration. "And I'll take up Mrs. Banket's breakfast if you'll fix it."

"Mrs. Banket," explained Tilly placidly, "she fix it herself!"

Banket clumsily got things on the tray, burned himself with the coffee, tripped on the stairs and stepped on Angelina, who was crawling through the upper hall on her hands and knees. She explained indignantly that she was a caterpillar and that he had "squashed" her. Banket set down the tray with a slight bang. Then he spanked Angelina and attended to Thomas, who was shrieking for the exact location of his fresh underwear.

"You've got to learn us the text," they both chirped to their father.

Thomas and Angelina were enjoying themselves greatly. Father's way of doing their hair was novel in the extreme and they expected to cause excitement on their arrival at Sunday school. When Banket got them off he was puffing and exhausted.

"You'll have to see what Tilly is doing to the dinner," Mrs. Banket woke up long enough to tell him. "There's to be a fricassee, and tell her not to forget the biscuits, as she did last Sunday, nor the cranberry jelly. And I'm sure I don't know what kind of a salad she can do by herself or—"

Banket found Tilly in tears. "The dessert," she explained, "he will not get hard! In the teacup!" Banket investigated. Tilly opened the teacup door to show him and then screamed. The dish of gelatin she had set on the ice had slipped and toppled side up. "What shall I make now?" Tilly wailed. "What shall I make now?"

Banket swallowed hard. "We—we will do without dessert today," he said. "Mrs. Banket said something about cranberry jelly—there's the phone!"

"Why, of course!" Banket cried nobly over the phone. "If you're down this way to church come right on over for dinner—glad to have you, Aunt Sarah!"

"Put on an extra place," he ordered Tilly, who was running around in circles in the kitchen. "There's company—and fix something for dessert—I don't know what—fried omelette if you want to—whatever you're used to fixing when the dessert tips over!"

Angelina fell down on the way home from Sunday school and was muffled from head to throat. Aunt Sarah came while Banket was in the throes of re-dressing his offspring. She stayed till 6 o'clock and Banket had to sit and entertain her instead of leaving that arid duty to Mrs. Banket while he retired with cigar and book to the den. Thomas and Angelina, being somewhat unrestricted, had made a wreck of the usually orderly downstairs.

Hungry, tired to death and wiser, Banket opened the door to look in on Mrs. Banket after dusk. She looked so rested and cheerful that it made him angry. "Here," he roared, "if there's any more nervous prostration in this house I'm going to have it myself!"

"Why," inquired Mrs. Banket, innocently, "have you been busy, dear?"

Man and the Rat.

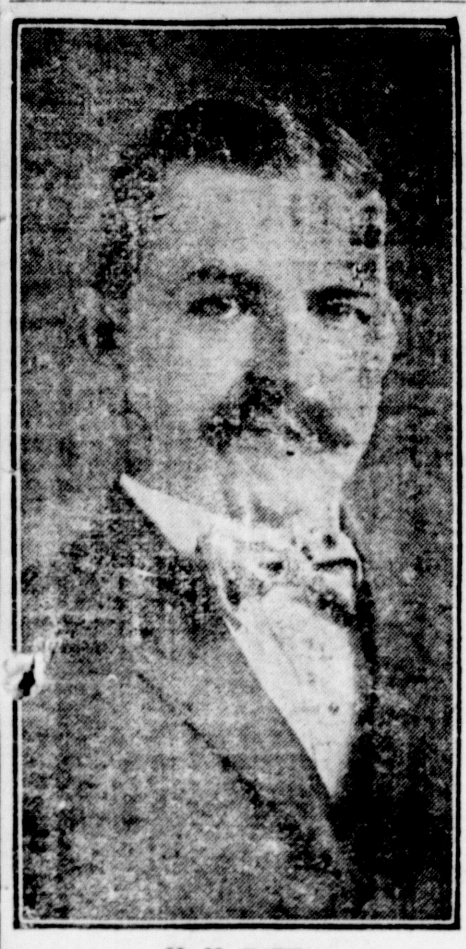

Man and the rat go everywhere and eat everything. They are the two creatures that dwell in houses and travel in ships. Each drives its other rivals to the wall, but neither, except locally and for brief periods, has ever come near exterminating the other. The use of cement is greatly facilitating the fight going on against the rats.

HINTS FOR THE HOUSEKEEPER.

H. N. GITT

To the Democratic Voters of the Twentieth Congressional District.

Mr. Gitt, who is not an active candidate, has consented to accept the Democratic nomination for congress, if the voters of this district consider him the most logical candidate, and he believes that he will make an aggressive campaign to win.

Mr. Gitt is not only popular in his home town, Hanover, but in what is known as the Democratic belt as well, and is unquestionably the strongest nominee who can be placed on the Democratic ticket, for the further reason that he is also well known throughout the whole of York and Adams counties.

He has always been an active and earnest worker in the interests of Democracy and always anxious to bring about harmony in the party. If there be any Democrats, of whom there ought to be many, who can find this district, there can be no doubt that he is one of them. He is a man of affairs, with more general personal knowledge and experience of the agricultural, industrial and commercial interests of this district than any other man and is undoubtedly well qualified to represent this important congressional district in the House of Congress.

In view of his exceptionally broad, wide and abundant experience on all matters pertaining to the vital issues of the day, he is peculiarly fitted to represent the people of this district, especially the farmer, the mechanic, the working man and the merchant, in congress.

This congressional district for a number of years has been misrepresented in Congress by our present representative, a member of the party in the minority in the district. It is high time that this condition be changed and we believe that Mr. Gitt is the man who, if nominated, can and will bring victory to his party.

We, therefore, appeal to the Democratic voters of this, the 20th congressional district, to vote for Mr. Gitt on April 13th, for we earnestly believe that his nomination will insure the success of our party at the polls in November.

Yours very truly,
Committee of Democrats interested in the success of the Party

BURNING SHIP RUN ON ROCKS

Steamer Ontario Wins Thrilling Race For Land.

CREW STAYS ON VESSEL

The Passengers Were Taken Off at Montauk Point, While Fire Rages In Vessel's Hold.

Montauk, L. I., April 9.—The steamship Ontario, of the Merchants' and Mariners' line, bound from Baltimore to Boston, was beached a mile and a half west of Montauk Point light, with her forward hold crammed with burning bales of cotton.

Her thirty passengers were taken on hand carried in a tug to New London. Her crew and Captain W. J. Bond are still aboard, throwing smoldering cotton and kegs of rosin into the sea and lowering the rest of her cargo into lighters. They think the fire is under control and that the ship will be saved and floated.

An episode that had the elements of a real catastrophe turned out to be mostly picturesque. The passengers had time to dress and depart with all their baggage. A breeches buoy, rigged by the life savers of the Dutch Plain station, was not needed for them. They were lowered without fuss in two of the ship's boats and transferred without mishap to the tug Tasco, which took them to New London to continue their way to Boston.

The only person hurt was a life saver, David H. Miller, while he was holding a stake that was to make fast the land end of the breeches buoy cable. He was hit by an axehead that flew off his handle. The axe blade gashed his forehead over the right eye.

The Ontario captain, steering his ship straight for shore, with his eyes smarting from the smoke that swept up through the forward hatch and back into the pilot house, could not have picked a more desolate spot for beaching. The vessel lies on an even keel about 300 feet from the only stretch of beach in this region that is not clean sand. The shore there is cluttered with rock ranging from pebbles to boulders. Back of this rock, a forbidding collection, rises a bluff 100 feet high, in whose soft soil great rifts have been made by the waves and tide.

When the Ontario was beached there was only one landsman a witness to the event. This lone witness of the ship's distress was David Miller, the life saver who was later hurt. He was patrolling the beach in the rain when he saw a faint glow on the ocean off to the southeast. Squinting through the drizzle, he saw a rocket rise brightly and fade and that was enough for Miller. He rushed to a lit hut that shelters a government telephone and called up his mates at the Dutch Plain station.

From the telephone he ran to the brink of the cliff and shot up a rocket, which meant: "Your signal is seen and aid will come as soon as possible."

The Ontario drew nearer, the smoke spouting from her forward hatch, with now and then a gleam of red from the flames in the cotton below. She was headed for the nearest land, Deal Man's Bend. Meantime the life savers that Miller had summoned had arrived on the scene.

The steamship struck gently and rested easily. The Ontario's passengers were standing beside the ship's boats, surrounded by their belongings, ready to be rescued.

When the fire was first discovered they had been summoned to the main saloon and locked in. There the captain had told them that there was no immediate danger and that the ship was sure to be beached before the flames could possibly burst through the compartment filled with cotton. So when the Ontario was beached the thirty passengers stood there on the upper deck. The tug Tasco had arrived and the passengers were transferred.

PRESIDENT AT CHRISTENING

With Mrs. Taft, He Attends Baptizing of Infant Cousin.

Washington, April 9.—The president and Mrs. Taft attended the christening of the president's youngest cousin, Elsie Alexander Caroline Grosvenor, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert H. Grosvenor.

The baby's grandparents, Dr. Edward A. Grosvenor, of Amherst college, and Mrs. Grosvenor, and Mr. and Mrs. Alexander Graham Bell also were in attendance.

Virginia Monument Inscription Adopted

BRITISH MINERS AT WORK

First Coal Mined Will Go to Railroads and Mills.

London, April 9.—General activity prevails in all the coal mining districts of Great Britain.

In Scotland and North Wales there was a large increase in the number who resumed work, while in the English and South Welsh coal fields small gangs of men are clearing the road ways.

In Flintshire 6000 miners have started work again, and in the Derbyshire pits the men are working in preparation for coal mining.

In Fifehire, Scotland, the men have decided not to return until the funds in the treasury of the union, which amount to $150,000, have been exhausted. In Southern Wales the prospects are not bright, as the engineers, fire men and other surface men have pledged themselves not to return to work until their demands also have been conceded.

The first coal mined will be supplied to the railroads and mills, so that three weeks at least will pass before the householders will be able to get full supplies.

SAY RECOGNITION WILL BE SECURED

Union Officials Hopeful Before Conference.

Wilkes-Barre, Pa., April 9.—Union men made no effort to interfere with the operators of three washeries in the anthracite field, although it was known that coal was being prepared for market and shipped as soon as it was ready.

At Montanauqua the West End Coal company discovered that it had enough non-union men to operate two instead of one washery. The machinery in both plants was started and kept running at its full capacity throughout the day. Union men did not stay long on the scene when it was learned that the purpose of the operators was to ship.

John M. Mack, secretary-treasurer of district No. 1, said: "We have positive information that many of the operators are anxious to grant recognition. The report has reached us that President George F. Baer will probably resign from the committee after this conference. We look upon this as meaning that the operators are in a position to concede us something which Baer opposes or which he has opposed for some time."

WARRANT FOR MILLIONAIRE

Frederick O. Beach Charged With Attempt to Kill Wife.

Albany, N. Y., April 9.—A warrant charging Frederick O. Beach, the New York society man and a member of the Alken millionaire colony, with assault and battery with intent to kill his wife, Mrs. Camilla Beach, was sworn out here.

This action grows out of the murderous assault made upon Mrs. Beach on the night of Feb. 26, when she was felled with a fence paling and her throat slashed while in the yard of her winter home, which has been the season's sensation at the resort.

It was claimed by the Beachs that Mrs. Beach had been called out to the gate by a negro man, who said he had a note for her; that she went to get it, and that the negro then slashed her throat and made his escape in the darkness. A warrant charging the crime to Mrs. Beach's husband has been expected for more than a week.

"STOLEN GOODS" PUT UP TO TAFT

Asked to Repudiate Acts of Federal Employees in Kentucky.

DIXON CALLS IT PLAIN THEFT

Declares In Open Letter Unless Mr. Taft Takes Action He Will Become Deliberate Receiver of Stolen Goods.

Washington, April 9.—In an open letter to President Taft, given out to the Roosevelt headquarters here, Senator Joseph M. Dixon, campaign manager for Colonel Roosevelt, declares that the president "will become the deliberate receiver of stolen goods," if he does not repudiate the action of certain federal officeholders in the Kentucky elections Saturday and institute proceedings against them.

Senator Dixon's letter was sent as the result of a telegram received from E. C. O'Rear, former chief justice of the supreme court of Kentucky, and Republican candidate for governor at the last election.

This telegram, sent on Sunday, follows: "Later returns give Roosevelt First district, but chairman of McCracken county, who is deputy postmaster at Paducah, signed Taft certificate, although Roosevelt carries county by 1005 to 517."

In Carlisle county Roosevelt had all but three, one of whom was the chairman, but postmaster signs Taft certificate. The district chairman is postmaster at Manfield.

"Nothing approaching these high handed methods has ever been developed before in Kentucky politics," Senator Dixon, in his letter, declares that federal officeholders supporting President Taft are specifically charged by Judge O'Rear with violating the law, the civil service regulations and executive orders.

"These acts operate to subvert the directly expressed will of the majority of the voters in the districts where committed," says the letter. "In plain language, these acts constitute theft. Unless they are promptly repudiated by you, and those who committed them are immediately cited for trial, you cannot escape the charge of being willing to profit knowingly by such theft. In other words, you will become the deliberate receiver of stolen goods."

Senator Dixon declares that postmasters have ignored President Taft's recent message to congress, recommending the transfer of postmaster to the civil service—or that they "refuse to credit you with sincerity in your public declarations."

"Failure on your part now to act in prompt rebuke and punishment of these crimes," he adds, "can only convince the whole country that the assault upon your honor by your subordinates in Kentucky is justified."

"I call upon you, not as a candidate for re-nomination, but as president of the United States, to issue an order to the officeholders of Kentucky to cancel their illegal action. I call upon you as president of the United States to punish these men guilty of violating the civil service rules and the orders of your predecessor. I call upon you as president of the United States to enforce the law."

Senator Dixon stated that he had sent the reports to the civil service commission. In giving out the letter he said the subject would be "before congress within twenty-four hours."

The Missing Suitcase

"I know you had a perfectly delightful time at your house party," said the girl who was calling.

"Indeed, we did," said the hostess. "It is too bad that you could not be there."

"I was heart-broken because I had to miss it. But tell me everything. I want particularly to hear about the girl your brother is engaged to."

"Oh, Alice. She's the dearest thing!"

"Nice looking?"

"She's a dream! Tall and slender and willowy."

"One of the staid and dignified type?"

"Not at all. That was what we feared, but she's nothing of the sort. I laughed so much during the week she was here that if I never laugh again I can't complain that I haven't had my share."

"You might pass round some of the fun."

"Well, you know it is not a long journey here from Middle Junction, where Alice lives, so she decided not to bring a trunk—"

"Not bring a trunk?"

"No, she decided to put everything in her brother's suitcase."

"But what in the world can a girl get into a suitcase?"

"You would be surprised to know all that Alice got into that suitcase. It must have been as big as a box-car."

"Didn't you see it yourself?"

"Indeed I didn't. That is the part that is so funny. She sent the suitcase over to the checking room at the railroad station and then she went around and gathered up the other stuff she wanted to bring. There was an armful of gifts for the children and things of that sort. Then she thought she would bring a dozen oranges. So when she climbed aboard the train, with her cloak and her umbrella and her oranges and her suitcase, she was pretty well loaded down."

"There was not enough room in the rack over her head for all her belongings, but she turned one of the seats over and piled most of her plunder on the seat opposite her. The suitcase she slid in between the two seats which were back to back. After a while she leaned her head on something and went to sleep."

"Well, when Alice's train pulled into the station Alice woke up, put on her hat and gathered together her thousand and one belongings, then she reached in between the two seats for her suitcase, and withdrew her hand full of empty air. She stopped over and looked—the suitcase was gone!"

"Mercy!"

"Yes, while she had slept in her seat someone had deliberately taken her suitcase and climbed off at one of the way stations with it. You should have seen her when she arrived for a week's visit with no clothes but those she stood in and with no baggage but a dozen oranges and a bundle of gifts. She was tragedy personified."

"Well I should think so!"

"When we had heard all about the suitcase I took Alice up to her room to fix up as best she could, and there was barely time to get ready for dinner. But she said she would just curl her hair a little and wash her face, and make her traveling dress do until she could send home or do some shopping. So I sat down while she was preparing herself before the glass. The first thing she said was: 'Oh, dear! My curling iron is in the suitcase!'"

"How provoking!"

"Wasn't it? But I said: 'Never mind. You can curl your hair with my iron.'"

"At that a sudden thought struck her and she fell back on the bed and screamed with laughter."

"What was it?"

"That was what I wanted to know. When I approached her she reached for me and pulled me down on the bed with her and cried: 'Jennie, I can't curl my hair!'"

"Why not? I asked her."

"Because," she gasped, 'my hair is in the suitcase, too!'"

"We just clung to each other and laughed until mother heard us and came running to see what it was all about. Then when we told her she screamed with laughter, too."

"It broke down all barriers of reserve between Alice and us and we had a perfectly lovely time."—Chicago Daily News

RUNK & PECKMAN'S REALTY REPORT

On April the First, we closed our first year's business in Adams County, with a record of 30 sales. We sold as many more at our Chambersburg office. All of the parties who bought through us, with but one exception, have settled for and taken possession of their properties. During the coming year we will be able to give both buyers and sellers even better service than in the season just ended. In this newspaper we will advertise each week a number of choice properties from our large list. Remember you don't have to pay more when you buy through Runk & Peckman. We earn our small commission in many ways. By taking advantage of our large list you can find just the property you want without trouble and annoyance. We serve the seller by bringing his property before a large number of good buyers. When we bring buyer and seller together we use our experience and knowledge in soils and values, to get them together on a common ground where a deal can be made to the advantage of both. We cannot and will not be a party to any dishonest deal. Our reputation for fair dealing is worth more than the small commission made in such transactions. We believe and act on the principle of a "square deal" for all. Our time and experience is at your service.

"JAY PATCHEN" HOME OF "LAURENCE"
Registered No. 43005 Heavy Weight Draughter

LAURENCE—percheron stallion—one of the largest and finest of his class. He has been shown only four times and has four blue ribbons to his credit. He is a handsome steel dapple roan, just 6 years old and weighs over 1,500 lbs., for style and beauty he cannot be surpassed. The size and make-up of this horse should appeal to all interested in general purpose horses. TERMS:—$1500 cash and $500 to insure a mare with foal or $500 to insure a live colt.

JAY PATCHEN—son of Jaybird 5000 sire of Ed. Winter 2121, sire of Allen Winter 2063; winner of the $50,000.00 Trotting Derby at Beavertown, Mass., on Aug. 25, 1908. He was the champion trotter of 1908. In breeding JAY PATCHEN presents unrivaled of blood lines, producing as it has some of the best performers in the pages of turf history. In the male line his family has produced such grand horses as LOCANDA 2502; ALLERSON 2503; HAYTHORN 2504; CHARLEY HAYT 2505; REDLAC 2507; GENERAL FOREST 2408; GAYTON 2383; ALLERTON 2204; MAXINE 2184 and so on and on, including over 500 better than 2:30. JAY PATCHEN is also a first cousin of Jay Patch 1267, holding World's racing records. On Oct. 11, 1908, at Lexington Ky., Dan Patch paced the greatest mile of his life and only an accident prevented his having a record of 1:54. He paced the first quarter in 29 seconds, the second quarter in 27 1/2 seconds, being a 1:56 clip, was at the half in 57 1/2 seconds, a 1:51 clip, the third quarter in 29 seconds and was at the three-quarters in 1:25 1/2, and was finishing strong at the seven-eighths pole when the race broke a blood vessel in his nostril and slackened up at once crowding him in towards the fence and forced him to slacken his tremendous stride of 22 feet, and yet Dan Patch finished the mile in 1:56 1/2, which the horse papers and all horsemen admit was the fastest and greatest performance of the world famous harness King Jay Patchen a 2:10 trotter. A call to the farm to see his get will convince any one that he is a Style Beauty and Speed producer and a sure foal getter. Terms:—$2,000 cash and $1500 when colt stands on its feet or $500 until close of the season June 15th.

WARREN R. A great sire for his age. A 4-year old. They cannot be any better. His disposition cannot be equalled. Will make the coming season at The Wolf Stock Farm at the low price of $5.00 to insure a colt on its feet. We cannot recommend him too highly. A cordial invitation is extended to all to visit the farm and inspect our stock whether interested or not. Visitors always welcome. A complete pedigree of Jay Patchen size 12x15 will be sent free to anyone requesting it.

FOR SALE—a head of fine drivers and workers, one a good leader. Will sell at a reasonable figure. It will pay you to inspect this fine bunch of horses. One with a two minute gait.

CHAPTER IV.

Law at Balaam's Cross Roads.

But Mr. Yancy was only at the beginning of his trouble. Three days later there appeared on the borders of Scratch Hill a gentleman armed with a rifle. It was Charley Balaam, old Squire Balaam's nephew.

"Can I see you friendly, Bob Yancy?" Balaam demanded with the lungs of a stentor, sheltering himself behind the thick bole of a sweetgum, for he observed that Yancy held his rifle in the crook of his arm.

"I reckon you can, Charley Balaam, if you are friendly," said Yancy.

"I'm-a-going to trust you, Bob," said Balaam. And forsaking the shelter of the sweetgum he shuffled up the slope.

"How are you, Charley?" asked Yancy, as they shook hands.

"Only just tolerable, Bob. You've been warranted—Dave Blount swore hit on to you." He displayed a sheet of paper covered with much writing and decorated with a large seal.

"Read it," he said mildly. Balaam scratched his head.

"I don't know that hit's my duty to do to you, Bob. Hit's my duty to serve it on to you."

At this juncture Uncle Sammy's bent form emerged from the path that led off through the woods in the direction of the Bellamy cabin. With the patriarch was a stranger.

"Howdy, Charley. Here, Bob Yancy, you shake hands with Bruce Carrington," commanded Uncle Sammy. At the name both Yancy and Balaam manifested interest. They saw a man in the early twenties, clean-limbed and broad-shouldered, with a handsome face and shapely head.

"Yes, sir, hit's a grandson of Tom Carrington that used to own the grist-mill down at the Forks."

"Where you located at, Mr. Carrington?" asked Yancy. But Carrington was not given a chance to reply. Uncle Sammy saved him the trouble.

"Back in Kentucky. He takes rafts down the river to New Orleans, then he comes back on ships to Baltimore, or else he hoofts it north overland. He wants to visit the Forks," he added.

"I'm shortly goin' that way myself, Mr. Carrington, and I'll be pleased of your company—but first I got to get through with Bob Yancy," said Balaam, and again he produced the warrant. "If agreeable to you, Bob, I'll ask Uncle Sammy to read this here warrant."

"Who's been a warrantin' Bob Yancy?" cried Uncle Sammy.

"Dave Blount has."

"I knowed hit—I knowed he'd try to get even! What's the charge agin you, Bob?"

"Read hit," said Balaam. "Why, sho—can't you read plain writin', Uncle Sammy?" for the patriarch was showing signs of embarrassment.

"If you gentlemen will let me—" said Carrington pleasantly. After a moment's scrutiny of the paper that Balaam had thrust in his hand, Carrington began:

"To the Sheriff of the County of Cumberland: Greetings:

"Whereas, it is alleged that a murderous assault has been committed on one David Blount, of Fayetteville, by Robert Yancy, of Scratch Hill, said Blount sustaining numerous bruises and contusions, to his great injury of body and mind; and, whereas, it is further alleged that said murderous assault was wholly unprovoked and without cause, you will forthwith take into custody the person of said Yancy, of Scratch Hill, charged with having inflicted the bruises and contusions herein set forth in the complaint of said Blount, and instantly bring him into our presence to answer to these and several crimes and misdemeanors. You are empowered to seize said Yancy wherever he may be at; wheth-

"You Are Empowered to Seize Said Yancy Wherever He May Be At."

on the hillside or in the valley, eating or sleeping, or at rest.

"DE LANCY BALAAM, Magistrate, Fourth District, County of Cumberland, State of North Carolina. Done this twenty-fourth day of May, 1855."

"P. S.—Dear Bob: Dave Blount says he ain't able to chew his meat. I thought you'd be glad to know." Smilingly Carrington folded the warrant and handed it to Yancy.

THE PRODIGAL JUDGE

By VAUGHAN KESTER
ILLUSTRATIONS BY D. MELVILLE

"Well, what are you goin' to do about hit, Bob?" inquired Balaam.

"Maybe I'd ought to go. I'd like to oblige the squire," said Yancy.

"Suppose I come to the Cross Roads this evening?"

"That's agreeable," said the deputy, who presently departed in company with Carrington.

Some hours later the male population of Scratch Hill, with a gravity befitting the occasion, prepared itself to descend on the Cross Roads and give its support to Mr. Yancy in his hour of need. Even Uncle Sammy, who had not been off the Hill in years, announced that no consideration of fatigue would keep him away from the scene of action, and Yancy loaned him his mule and cart for the occasion. Yancy led the straggling procession, with the boy trotting by his side, his little sunburned face clasped in the man's great hand.

The squire's court held its infrequent sittings in the best room of the Balaam homestead, a double cabin of hewn logs. Here Scratch Hill was gratified with a view of Mr. Blount's battered visage.

"What's all this here fuss between you and Bob Yancy?" demanded the squire when he had administered the oath to Blount. Mr. Blount's statement was brief and very much to the point.

"He done give me the order from the judge of the co't—I was to show it to Bob Yancy—"

"Got that order?" demanded the squire sharply. With a smile, damaged, but clearly a smile, Blount produced the order. "Hm—appinted guardian of the boy—" the squire was presently heard to murmur. The crowded room was very still now, and more than one pair of eyes were turned pityingly in Yancy's direction.

When the long arm of the law reached out from Fayetteville, where there was a real judge and a real sheriff, it clothed itself with terrors.

"Well, Mr. Blount, what did you do with this here order?" asked the squire.

"I showed Yancy the order—" "You lie, Dave Blount; you didn't!" said Yancy. "But I can't say as I would have made no difference, squire. He'd have taken his licking just the same and I'd have had my nappy out of that bugsy!"

"Didn't he say nothing about this here order from the co't, Bob?"

"There wa'n't much conversation, squire. I invited my nappy to light down, and then I snaked Dave Blount over the wheel."

"Who struck the first blow?"

"He did. He struck at me with his buggy whip."

Squire Balaam removed his spectacles and leaned back in his chair.

"It's the opinion of this here co't that the whole question of assault rests on whether Bob Yancy saw the order. Bob Yancy swears he didn't see it, while Dave Blount swears he showed it to him. If Bob Yancy didn't know of the existence of the order he was clearly actin' on the idea that Blount was stealin' his nappy, and he done what any one would have done under the circumstances. If, on the other hand, he knewed of this order from the co't, he was not only guilty of assault, but he was guilty of resistin' an officer of the co't."

The squire paused impressively. His audience drew a long breath.

"Can a body drop a word here?" It was Uncle Sammy's thin voice that cut into the silence.

"Certainly, Uncle Sammy. This here co't will always admire to listen to you."

"Well, I'd like to say that I consider that Fayetteville co't mighty officious with its orders. This part of the county won't take nothin' off Fayetteville! We don't interfere with Fayetteville, and blamed if we'll let Fayetteville interfere with us!"

There was a murmur of approval. Scratch Hill remembered the rifles in its hands and took comfort.

"The Fayetteville co't air a higher co't than this, Uncle Sammy," explained the squire indignantly.

"I'm afeared of that," snapped the patriarch. "I've seen hit's steeples."

"Air you finished, Uncle Sammy?" asked the squire deferentially.

"I 'low I am. But I 'low that if this here case is goin' again Bob Yancy I'd recommend him to go home and not listen to no mo' foolishness."

"Mr. Yancy will oblige this co't by settin' still while I finish this case," said the squire with dignity. "Mr. Yancy has sworn to one thing, Mr. Blount to another. Now the Yancys air an old family in these parts; Mr. Blount's folks air strangers. Consequently," pursued the squire, somewhat vindictively, "we ain't had any time in which to form an opinion of the Blounts; but for myself, I'm suspicious of folks that keep movin' about and who don't seem able to get located permanent nowhere, who air here today and away tomorrow. But you can't say that of the Yancys. They air an old family in the country, and naturally this co't feels obliged to accept a Yancy's word before the word of a stranger. And, in view of the fact that the defendant did not seek litigation, but was perfectly satisfied to let matters rest where they was, it is right and just that all costs should fall on the plaintiff."

OLYMPIC TRIALS FOR ALL ROUNDS

Three Tests For Decathlon and Pentathlon Men.

TO BE HELD IN MAY.

Contests Scheduled For Athletes of Three Sections of the Country—Committee Not Bound to Select Team or Any Athlete Who Wins in Tryouts.

By TOMMY CLARK.

Tryouts for the Olympic Pentathlon and Decathlon competitions will be held in three sections of the country, in order to give the athletes of the Pacific coast, central west and east an opportunity of competing.

The team selection committee will be greatly influenced in the selection of the men for these events by the performances of those competing in the tryouts. These tryouts, however, will be merely guides, and the committee may select an athlete who was unable to compete in these tryouts if in the opinion of the committee this ability warrants it. The committee is not bound to select for the team every or any athlete who wins or competes in these tryouts.

The Pentathlon, the tryouts for which will be held May 18, comprises the running broad jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 200 meters flat, throwing the discus, best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

The Decathlon tryouts will take place May 24 and 25. This event is made up of 100 meters flat, running broad jump, putting the weight, best hand; running high jump, 400 meters flat, hurdle race, 110 meters, throwing the discus, best hand; pole jump, throwing the javelin (with the javelin held in the middle), best hand; 1,500 meters flat.

Like many other pugilists, Jim Flynn had his troubles. His name is Ephraim McGee. He weighs 218 pounds and stands six feet six inches in height. He was amateur heavyweight champion of Canada for four years, but has not engaged in any professional contests. He is now training.

"Well, to make him feel good," said Flynn, "I'll fight under the name of Young Gallagher."

On the fateful evening Flynn entered the ring and walked over to Lavelle's corner.

"The game, kid," he advised. "I'll not hurt you."

Two rounds later Lavelle had crushed Flynn's jaw, blackened his eyes and forced the referee to order curtains.

Connie Mack says that McInnis, Collins, Baker and Barry comprise the best infield that ever played in the major leagues. Mack doesn't except the old Cub combination, Chance, Evers, Tinker and Steinfeldt, or Boston's once famous quartet, Tenney, Lowe, Long and Collins. He doesn't bar the old Baltimore infield, Doyle, Reltz, Jennings and McGraw, and says the great Chicago four, Anson, Pfeffer, Williamson and Burns, would not have classed with his bunch. Mack's contention, however, will cause a wide difference of opinion.

Eddie Collins of the Athletics declares that Walsh of the White Sox is one of the hardest pitchers to steal on. "Walsh has the most baffling motion and it's a difficult proposition to steal a good lead on him. When he is in the box only a few runners take a chance with him."

Ty Cobb, it is reported, tried for a job on a semiprofessional ball team when he was only thirteen years old. Ty didn't make such a hit when he began playing. It was his plugging that brought him to the front.

Robby Wallace says it will be a relief to escape Lefty George's constant wink. The manager of the Browns says that Lefty would wink saucily every time they met. Aside from that Wallace had no grievances against George.

Harry Davis, manager of the Cleveland Blues, tacks a $15,000 price on Lefty George, the former Brown boxman. Davis is a pretty fair judge of ball material, but some fans think he is over-estimating George.

CHICAGO COPPER A "HOPE."

Ephraim McGee Picked as Man to Defeat Jack Johnson.

The Chicago police department has thrown a "white hope" into the field, and many of his fellow bluecoats believe he is the logical man to meet Jack Johnson.

His name is Ephraim McGee. He weighs 218 pounds and stands six feet six inches in height. He was amateur heavyweight champion of Canada for four years, but has not engaged in any professional contests. He is now training.
